

Local Help Route Worksheet

No one number works everywhere. Find the door where you are, write down where you found it, and keep going.

PAINTED PLATE — HELD FOR CHAIRMAN SCENE-CONTRACT APPROVAL

Contract SC-615-05 · no image generated (rule of Chairman rejection 614)

A worn paper route card on a bus seat, three doors sketched along one street, the first two crossed through, the third circled.

This worksheet helps you find the next place to ask — for shelter, food, a medical bill, or legal help — in your country and city. It does not promise a bed or a service. It helps you keep a record of where you asked, what they said, and what to ask next, so that a closed door becomes information instead of a dead end. Free to anyone who needs it.

If you are in danger right now

Call your local emergency number first. It is different in different places. Write yours here:

Place	Emergency number
United States, Canada	911
European Union countries	112
United Kingdom	999 (112 also works)
Australia	000
New Zealand	111

Check your own country's number with a trusted local source; this short list is not complete. In the United States and Canada, 211 connects many people to local services — but most of the world has no 211, which is why this worksheet exists.

Your route card

One row per door. Always write where you found it and the date: services change, and a date lets the next person trust or re-check it.

Need	Place or number to ask	Found it where? (link, office, person)	Date checked	What happened	Next door

Questions to ask at any door

1. Do I qualify, and what do I need to bring? 2. If not here, who else helps with this? 3. Is there a waiting list — how long? 4. Can I apply by email or phone if I cannot come in? 5. Can I have that in writing? 6. Who should I ask for next time?

A medical bill you cannot pay

Ask the hospital billing office: “Do you have a financial assistance or charity-care policy, and can I apply?” In the United States, non-profit hospitals are required to have a written financial assistance policy. Ask before a bill goes to collections, and ask for a payment plan in writing. Rules differ in other countries — ask the same question in your language.

From the source (Chairman, sequence 606): “most people don’t even know ... they qualify for some fund that would help them pay their bill.”

Tonight · this week · this month

Tonight	This week	This month
A safe place to sleep; warmth; water; a charged phone	Food; a mailing address; replacing an ID; medication	Benefits you may qualify for; work; a longer-term place to live

Writing to us

Email ersatzrealityenterprise@gmail.com. Send your country, city or region, your preferred language, what you need, and whether a deadline is close. If you cannot call, write “email only.” If you are writing for someone else, ask their permission first.

Please do not send medical records, ID numbers, account details, court papers, or your exact sleeping location in the first email. We read messages ourselves; this is not an emergency service and no reply time is guaranteed. If you need help right now, contact an established local emergency or aid service.

We will look for the service where you are, show you the source and the date, and help you form the next question. Then tell us what happened. If that door did not open, we keep looking with you. Replies come from people, not from a simulated character.

Money on this worksheet

$N = P - F - T - D$ For a person who needs it: $P = $0.00$, so $N = $0.00$.
No money moves, so there is nothing to split and nothing is promised.

This worksheet is never sold to a person in need. Help is not conditional on a story, a post, a thank-you or unpaid work.