

THYLORA · ErsatzReality

Original story · customer edition

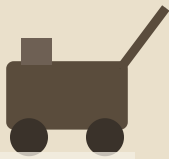

The Last Match

A family story about legacy, leaving, and what remains on the field.

HARBOR ELEVEN · COMMUNITY MATCH · 5 MIN REMAINING

HARBOR ELEVEN · HIS LAST MATCH AS CAPTAIN

CHALK MACHINE

THE BAND

HIS OWN POWER

EDITION IDENTITY

The Last Match — A THYLORA Family Story About Legacy

Document class	Customer story edition with discussion pages
Edition	Edition v2 · THY-ED2-20260917 · supersedes v1 (retained)
Audience	Family, club, classroom; readers of any age
Purpose	A finished digital edition. Print it, mark it up, or use it on screen.
Subject	Harbor Eleven, a neighbourhood team; one captain's last match
Rights	Original THYLORA / ErsatzReality work. No third-party rights engaged.
Imagery	Vector diagrams and object plates drawn for this edition
Delivery	PDF download via the THYLORA library (checkout-email sign-in)

Truth boundary

Harbor Eleven, Tomas Vale, Nia and Malik are original THYLORA characters. No real club, player or match is depicted, and no Earth sporting event is reported as fact.

Recorded as unknown

- THYLORA graphic mark: recorded UNKNOWN / not approved. No logo is drawn.
- Brand font family: recorded UNKNOWN. Families used are PROPOSED — NOT CANON.
- QR destinations: none verified, so no QR is printed.

THYLORA EDITION

THY-STORY-LAST-MATCH-001 · original story

build THY-ED2-20260917

vector art generated for this edition

sha-256 recorded in the THYLORA backend

THYLORA THY-STORY-LAST-MATCH-001 · original story

build THY-ED2-20260917

vector art generated for this edition

sha-256 recorded in the THYLORA backend

ONE

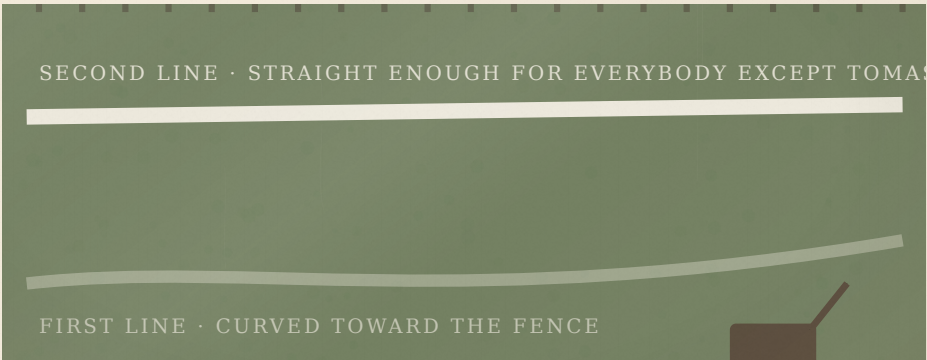

The Chalk Line

By seven in the morning, Tomas Vale had already drawn the sideline twice. The first line curved toward the garden fence. The second was straight enough to satisfy everybody except Tomas.

His granddaughter Nia carried the corner flags. “It is a community match, Granddad. The grass is half clover. Nobody is bringing a ruler.”

“That,” Tomas said, setting down the chalk machine, “is how crooked things become tradition.”

Today was his last match as captain of Harbor Eleven, the neighborhood team he had joined before Nia was born.

TIME	GROUND	TODAY
Seven in the morning	Community pitch, the grass half clover	His last match as captain of Harbor Eleven

TWO

What Everyone Came to See

By noon the field was crowded. Some came to watch Tomas score once more. Some came to see whether he would cry. Children chased a loose ball behind the benches while former teammates argued about matches no two people remembered the same way.

Tomas tied his boots slowly. Nia sat beside him. “Are you scared?”

“Of the match? No. Of everybody deciding what it means before we play it? A little.”

He handed her the captain’s band. “Hold this until I ask.”

CHALK MACHINE

THE BAND

HIS OWN POWER

WHAT PASSES BETWEEN GENERATIONS · HE GAVE THE BAND TO THE TEAM, NOT TO A SUCCESSOR

BY NOON	HANDED OVER	ASKED
The field was crowded	The captain’s band, to hold	“Are you scared?”

THREE

The Pass

The other team scored first. Harbor Eleven answered. With five minutes left, Tomas received the ball near the box. The crowd rose. He could shoot. The opening was narrow, but it was his kind of narrow.

Then he saw Malik, sixteen, running unmarked on the right. Malik had spent the season apologizing every time he called for the ball. Tomas passed.

Malik's first touch bounced too far. His second sent the ball between the goalkeeper's hands. After one surprised breath, the whole field erupted.

Malik ran first to Tomas. "You had the shot." "I had a

FOUR

After the Whistle

When the match ended, Tomas refused to be carried because his knee hurt and because he wanted to walk off under his own power. At midfield he called Nia over.

He did not give the captain's band to Malik. He gave it to the team and made them choose together.

WHAT HE TOLD THEM

Legacy is not making people repeat you. It is leaving them able to choose without you.

Later Nia found him pushing the chalk machine toward the shed. "The line is still crooked," she said. Tomas looked back. "Good. Gives them something to fix tomorrow."

AFTER THE WHISTLE

He walked off under his own power

THE BAND

Given to the team, to choose together

THE LINE

Still crooked, on purpose

USE IT

Talk together

When is passing the better act of leadership?

What should continue after Tomas leaves—and what should change?

What did Nia learn from what Tomas did rather than what he said?

WORLD NOTE

The crooked line

Two chalk lines are drawn in this story. The straight one is the one everybody praised. The crooked one is the one he left behind on purpose.

RIGHTS AND ORIGIN

Original THYLORA / ErsatzReality work. No third-party rights engaged. No Earth historical event is represented as fact.

CHALK MACHINE

THE BAND

HIS OWN POWER

WHAT PASSES BETWEEN GENERATIONS · HE GAVE THE BAND TO THE TEAM, NOT TO A SUCCESSOR

CLUB	CHARACTERS	RIGHTS
Harbor Eleven, a neighbourhood team	Original THYLORA characters	No real club or player depicted